

PERPLEXITY

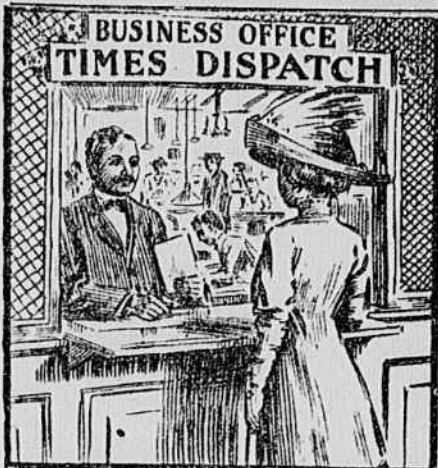

Miss Lucile La Verne, the talented artist now playing at the Academy, this city, having already experienced the advantages afforded by Richmond shops, is desirous of making another shopping tour. On this tour, however, Miss La Verne is limited as to time, as she must finish her shopping before the matinee performance.

Miss La Verne believes, and not without cause, that through the facilities afforded shoppers by Richmond merchants, she will be enabled to complete her shopping on time; but to tax the ingenuity of her many friends, she has arranged the following puzzle:

The following squares represent thirty-four of Richmond's progressive stores. The first square at the top represents the business office of the Times-Dispatch from which Miss La Verne starts. The last square at the bottom represents the Academy, her destination. Her object is to visit all these stores represented by the squares, passing from one to another in a vertical or a horizontal line (NOT DIAGONALLY). She cannot visit the same store twice, and must pass directly from the last store to the final square, representing the Academy. She cannot, of course, leave the Academy after once entering. Can Times-Dispatch readers help Miss La Verne in her dilemma? To help our readers we give the following hint: Remember the restrictions given above apply to the squares representing Richmond stores.

All the stores here represented have the correct solution. If you cannot solve the puzzle go to them and ask for the answer. YOU CAN GET A TICKET FREE TO THE EVENING PERFORMANCE AT THE ACADEMY by being the first to make a purchase at any of these stores—all have a limited number of tickets, which will be given to the first few customers making purchases Monday morning. Mention the puzzle—if you have the solution, present it; if not, ask how it is done.
